The Little Ones. Heaven bless the little ones-the joy of might the Man of Nazareth, with his warm and appreciative heart, exclaim. "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God." What better definition could we want of Heaven; a place good enough for children, and mhabited by children and the child like! And what a refutation is this of the slander of the innate depravity of the human nature! The little child is yet uncorrupted by contact with the world's wickedness, he is fresh from the hand of his Maker, he is yet true to his God-given nature-ergo, "of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." If the Saviour does not refute it, is not the little one himself, prattling innocency, a living refutation? Bless, then, we say, the early trudgers in hie's pathway! No home is complete where the patter of little feet is not heard and the lisping cadence of half-spoken household words is not breathed. A little silken-haired fairy we wot of, meets her father adown the walk whenever his footsteps, at nightfall, approach the househearth. That father, homeward bound, we well believe, is rather proud of his juvenile escort. The suns of two summers have kissed the dimpled cheek of the baby-girl. She plays "horsey" at her father's expense, clambers at the parental kers, and occupies an elevated seat at the table. She manages a few pet words, but for the most part can express her "thoughts. iffections and desires" equally well in English, Greek, German and Hebrew. Of her individual value her parents are known to have made very liberal estimates. She is believed to combine pretty much all the virtues to which babies ever attain. From casual acquaintance with the little one, we are able to endorse the very best thing that can be said of her. And it is because we assume her to be a representative of her class that we are so heartily in favor of miniature humanity generally. Blessings then again, we say, upon babies-especially the two year old's. CURE FOR THE BACK ACHE.-It is a custom in Berwickshire, Scotland, among women-workers in the field, when their backs become sore by bowing low down, while singling turnips with short shanked hoes, to lie down with their faces to the ground, allowing others to step on the lower parts of their backs with one foot, several imes, until the pain of fatigue is removed. Burton, in his "First Footsteps in Eastern Africa," narrates a very similar custom of females who lead the camels, who, on feeling fatigued, "lie at full length, prone, standing upon each other's backs, trampling and kneading with their toes, and rise like giants refreshed." This custom is called 'fogsi," in Africa, and in our country, it is ealled "straightening the back."

would save many an infant during the present autumn and coming winter. Possible misfortunes and terrible sorrows hang over all." How true this is. and yet how happily we are constituted not to allow it to prey continually upon us! The world is beset with danger and troubles. Sorrows fill our pathways, and mistortunes meet us everywhere. Yet there is a buoyancy and hope in our natures which enables us to grapple with calamities, overcome them, and "be gay and happy still." It is well there is philosophy enough in our compositions to teach us to look on the bright side of life. Were it otherwise, this world would be literally a "vale of tears." Disease may make him a cripple or a fright. Of bloomour hearts and the light of our homes! Well ing youth? A short time will supplant that with the wrinkles of age. Of mental ability? The mind may in an hour become a blank, and the man that was boast ful of his intellectual powers, an idiot -Of family standing? A single misstep may overwhelm a whole family with disgrace. In all this we see the utter folly of that pride which so often goes before destruction, and of the haughty spirit which invites a fall We are all in the battle of life. Difficulties and dangers surround us. If we fight the good fight with success, and come off victors in the end, we have more to be thankful for than proud of. few evenings since, a lady, remarkable for the vigor and variety of her intellectual attainments, stated that she was actively employed during the greater part of our war with Great Britain in knitting stockings for soldiers As an instance of her application she related that during three months she not only knitted a stocking every day (of course omitting Sundays). but carded the wool and spun the yarn for it. She also stated that from nine years of knee, takes liberty with the parental whis- age until she was married she carned her own living, and we may add that there are few ladies of her present age who enjoy as good health, or have minds more richly stored with acquired knowledge, although she has had the cares and troubles incident to bringing up a large family. She is patriotic still, but is more prudently so than she would probably have been in earlier life. Old age is however, generally the period of calculation, not always divested of selfishness. Willing to assist in working for our soldiers who are in the field, yet she freely confessed that she could not in her heart bear the idea of sending any of her numerous sons, all capable of bearing arms, to the war. The idea of exposing them to be torn to pieces by shot and shell was too much for her feelings. All the other ladies present dissented from her views -they were not only willing to send their sons and husbands to the war, but go themselves rather than submit to the Rebels. AN HONEST OLD MAID .- Nothing, in my opinion, (says Dean Ramsey,) comes up to the originality and point of the Montrose old maiden lady's most "exquisite reason" dar swearing pretty hard at de men! for not subscribing to the proposed fund for organizing a volunteer corps in that town. It was at the time of expected invasion at the beginning of the century, and some of the town magistrates called upon her and solicited her subscription to raise sending regards to all his friends in La men for the service of the king. "Indeed," she answered, right sturdily, "I'll dae nae myself, and I'm no' ga'en to raise men for need him after a little trouble he and I had." King George."

Drawing Rations. There are some episodes in the life of a brought to his own table. Halting, the following colloquy ensued : "Have fine potatoes here, I see."

"Splendid!" was the reply.

"Where do you get them? "Draw them."

"Does the government furnish potatoes n your rations " "Nary patato."

"I thought you said you drew them-"Did-we just do that thing !"

"But how, if they are not included in your rations?" "Easiest thing in the world Won't you ake some with us?" said the soldier, as he scated himself at the table, opposite the smoking vegetable. "Thank you! But will you oblige me by telling how you draw your potatoes, as they are not found by the commissary?" Nothing easier. Draw 'em by the tops, mostly! Sometimes with a hoe if one is left in the field. "Hum! yes! I understand. Well, see here; if you won't draw any more of mine, I will bring you a basket every morning,

"Bully for you, old fellow!" was the cry and three cheers and a tiger were given for broad ocean, the awe-inspiring forests, and Farmer ----- there, we had like to have written his name. The covenant was entered into, and no one but the owner drew potatoes from that field afterward.

Them Pertaters. Many of our readers have no doubt read the following rich anecdote. It is old, but us for reviving it frem the oblivion into which it was fast falling: Several legislative gentlemen were dining at a Boston hotel one of them asked Mr. D., a gentleman who sat opposite:

"Can you reach them pertaters, sir?" Mr. D. extended his arm towards the dish, and satisfying himself that he could reach the "pertaters," answered :

"Yes, sir" The legislator was taken back with the inexpected rebuff from the wag, but presently recovering himself, he asked : "Will you stick my fork into one of 'em then." Mr. D. took the fork, and very coolly olunged it into a finely-cooked potato, and left it there. The company roared, as they took the joke, and the victim looked more foolish than before; but suddenly an idea struck him, and rising to his feet, he exclaimed, with the air of conscious triumph: "Now, Mr. D., I will trouble you for the

Mr. D. rose to his feet, with the most importurbable gravity, pulled the fork out of the potato, and returned it, amidst an unconquerable thunder-storm of laughter, to the utter disconstitute of the gentleman from B.—N. Y. Mercury.

A Good ONE .- We were yesterday told good one of a jolly old landlord of German extraction, who keeps a hotel not a hundred miles north of this city. A friend in the East having presented him with a fine lot of fireworks, he proposed to give a fice pyrotechnical exhibition to his friends; and to perfect himself in the art of handling them, he went, the night before the exhibition, into a field near by, with a lighted candle, and commenced by igniting a vertical pin-wheel, holding it on a gimblet .-This covering him with sparks, he procured an overcoat, and next set off a serpent, which expleded in his hand, striking his dog, nearly killing him.

His next experiment was with a large rocket, which he ignited, holding it in his hand. We will describe his success in his hand. He says: "I sets her a-fire-den she pulls-den I pulls-den she pulls again. Den de span-

A Man of no Character.

Sceretary of War Cameron, it appears has been importuned to permit correspondence to be sent to him by Ellis B. Schna bel, who was arrested for treason in Connecticut some weeks ago. He thus declines the proposition sent to him by Col. Martin Burke through Lieut. General Winfield

"The person referred to (Schnabel) is the son of a very worthy gentleman, a citizen of Pennsylvania, known to me many years .--He was educated at Princeton College, where he exhibited considerable talent .-He came back to Pennsylvania, and has been 'living on his wits' ever since. He is a man, I am sorry to say, of no character, and I have no desire to open any commucommunication forwarded by Col. Martin Burke unopened."

HORRIBLE DEATH AT NIAGARA FALLS. -The Niagara Falls Gazette states that the remains of Mrs. Fitzgibbons, wife of a volunteer named James Fitzgibbons, were accidentally discovered last week down the bank of the river, nearly half way between the Falls and Suspension Bridge. She has been missing since about the middle of August. About that time she probably fell over the bank while intoxicated. The place where she fell over is some 500 or 600 feet high, and so nearly perpendicular that nothing intervened to break the force of the fall until she struck upon the rocks. That death did not immediately ensue is probable from the fact that her remains were found some distance from where she fell, and where she had evidently crawled. Several bones were broken, but the probability is that she lived sometime after the accident.

A letter from Sebastopol states that General Gowan has succeeded in raising eight large war steamers, and fifty gun frigates, three corvettes, twelve gun brigs and transports, with several smaller craft. Besides these, the vessels removed by blasting include one three decker, five two deckers, two frigates, two corvettes, and five transports. Some of the ships lay over three fathoms in the mud. Repairs have recently been made at the cemeteries, both by the British and Russian Governments. The town of Sebastopol is rapidly recovering sic thing; I never could raise a man for from the field; I thought the rider did not from the effects of the last war. The population is now about twelve thousand; over five hundred houses have been erected since the war, and building is now quite active. Commerce is also reviving. The emperor

When an old lady had fallen into the well, and was rescued from drowning with some difficulty, she declared that "had it not been for Providence, and another man, she never would been got out alive.". The theory of the old woman's assertion seems to have operated in one of the churches in Logansport, Indiana, where on the National Fast-day, in the presence of a large congregation, a gentlemon of reputed creditable attainments, both literary and moral, thus prayed: "O Lord, had the East done as well as the Hoosier State in furnishing men to put down this rebellion, we would not be under the necessity of calling on

LOSING THE MINISTER -A country minister had been invited, with his wife, to dine and spend the night at the house of one of his lairds. The host was very proud of one of the very large bedy which had just come into fashion, and in the morning asked the lady how she had 'slept in' it. "Oh, very well, sir; but I thought I'd. lost the minister a-the-gither."

"HURRAH."—A great many people have shouted "Hurrah" "many a time and oft," but comparatively few, however, know its derivation and meaning. The same word, and for the same purpose, is used all the world over, and originated smong the eastern nations, where it was used as a war cry, from the belief that every man who died in battle for his country went to Heaven. It is derived from the Sclavonic, word Hu raj, which means "To Paradise."

The decided and marked improvement in public confidence as so the future of our commercial prosperity au the doyal states, which now animates business and financial circles, rests, upon so sure and permanent a Joundation, that the superstructure of mercantile" credit and business activity will be rapidly built thereou, whether the present civil war continues or not. The trade of the loval States has suffered all the evils that the war can inflict, and henceforth will be beselited thereby from the purchases and each payments made by government on account of domestic manufactures, agricultural products, and home industry. The estimated amount of this war expenditure addition to the demand and cash sales of the loyal States of about $350,000,000 per annum, or a sum equal to the average of our whole foreign trade, and double that of the seceded States.

This eash expenditure by government on secount of, the war only commenced after the negotiation of the $150,000,000 loans, or about a fortnight since. Previous to that event the peace appropriations of 1860. were the only funds disbursed. It is thus apparent that the movements of this govcreated borrowers to carry the load of its liabilities, thereby adding to the embarrassconfidence and mercantile credit by an inportunate demand for money among those who were disappointed in receiving it from government when due. The deferred payment system of trading increased the evils of the commercial crisis of 1860, caused by the loss of $150,000,000 in southern debts. while the cash payment system rapidly removes them. The latter is the stimulating cause of our present movement toward prossults which must inevitably extend gradually to every interest in this community, by the continuance of a cash trade to the extent of a million dollars each day. The divided up among many people. Besides, sponse to his resignation. ensployment is given to masses of men. wonien, and children, who must have other-wise remained idle. The advance in prices caused by the war has enriched many individuals. Uotton goods which 10c. to 12c per lb. are now in demand, and Richmond." sold readily for each on a cost based upon 18c. to 2Je, per lb. This is caused by doubts as to the future supply of cotton.

market and the capacity of the mills to making together twenty-five per cent. profit $85,000,000 per anumn, these estimates furnish ample reasons for the conviction that the natural reflux after a crisis has fairly set in, and that we are now embarked on the flood-lide of the soundest and most ever experienced. The loyal States possess $100,000,000 more specie or real money than they ever! did before. The foreign course of trade causes further imports of specie and retains. The New York banks, after taking $35,-000,000 of government loan and paying $16,190,000 in coin, are stronger than they have ever been before at the corresponding date in any year since they were founded. The government disbursements simply distribute the specie among our own people, to return in due course to the banks and other depositories of specie, and each new loan for $50,000,000 can be repeated at intervals of two months, without weakening the banks or deranging the currency of the country, which can be kept strictly to a specie standard during the whole process. The government and bank finances are therefore impregnable, and command the confidence of our most experienced and conservative bank managers and capitalists Capital, or the purchasing power of the commercial community, consists of money and credit. We have at present more money than usual, but less credit Credit alone is wanting to realize what is called in modern commerce great prosperity; viz. : increased active circulation of money and commodities. A commercial crisis or pressure on the money market is caused by failure of confidence and oredit, and not by a scarcity of money, as is evident from the history of this city(since December, 1860; and it is satisfactory to know that mercantile credit is the only resential wanting to make good times, and that we are rapidly gaining it from the natural commercial causes which operate independently of the war and its vicissitudes, because every channel of trading, except the second States, is open to our merchants as freely as during a season of profound peace.

At Old Point no intelligence had been received from the first, though the belief is expressed that it reached its destination on Friday. From Captain Hall of British schooner James Butler, arrived at Baltimore on Saturday, we learn that early on Wednesday morning the fleet was off Cape Hatterns, sailing South. The weather was then very pleasant, and Capt. Hall did not encounter the storm until some distance this side of flatterss. This renders it probable that the storm did not extend south of Hatteras, and that the fleet сьспреd it altogether.

> Car Covernment has just as much money as it requires. Gold is pouring in from the Old World, as well as from California, by millions. The immense crop of breadstuffs have never had the premise of a better market, whilst a limited amount of imports completes the favorable aspect presented by matters on this side.

THE NEW COMMANDER IN-CHIEF OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY .- General Mc-Clellan may be said to be Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army, by virtue of General Scott's resignation. General S. had him placed next to him in rank in the service, that he might be his successor. Never was there more confidence between father and son, than has existed between Lieut. General Scott and Major General McClellan. The latter's plans for the prosecution of the war, we need hardly add, meet the hearty concurrence of the retired veteran.

It is understood that General Me Hellan will continue in the active command in the field of the Army of the Potomac. It is stated that General McClellan has issued an order exonerating General Stone mediately above the heart. > THE CONFEDERATE STYLE OF FIGHT-ING .- A correspondent of the St. Louis Republican relates the following of the Confederate style of fighting at Lexington :

I saw one case that shows the Confederate style of fighting. An old Texan, dressed in buckskin, and armed with a long rifle, used to go up to the works every morning about seven o'clock, carrying his dinner in a tin pail. Taking a good posiin the evening, when he returned home to supper and a night's sleep. The next day, a little before seven, saw him, dinner and rifle in hand, trudging up street to begin again his regular day's work, and in this style he continued till the surrender.

A special Cabinet Council was convened on Friday morning, at 9 o'clock, to take the ubject into consideration.

It was decided that General Scott's rejuest, under the circumstances of his adanced age and infirmities, could not be de-

Gen. McClellan was, thereupon, with the ananimous agreement of the Cabiner, notified that the command of the army would be devolved upon him.

At four o'clock in theafternoon the Cabinet again waited upon the President, and attended him to the residence of General to commence his retreat. He then gave Scott. ABRAHAM LINCOLN. (Signed) Speech of General Scott.

General Scott therepon rose and addressed the President and Cabinet, who had also risen, as follows :---President-This honor overwhelms me-It overpays all services I have attempted to render to my country. If I had any claims before, they are all obliterated by this expression of approval by the President, with the unanimous support of his Cabinet.

I know the President and this Cabinet. well. I know that the country has placed its interests in this trying crisis in safe ceping. Their counsels are wise ; their labors are untiring as they are loyal, and their course is the right one.

President, you must excuse me. I am unable to stand longer to give utterance to the feelings of gratitude which oppress me-In my retirement I shall offer up my prayers to God for this Administration and for my country. I shall pray for it with confidence in its success over its enemies, and that speedily.

Remarks of the President. The President then took leave of Gen.

Scott, giving him his hand, and saying he hoped soon to write him a private letter expressive of his gratitude and affection. The President added:--"GENERAL:-You will naturally feel solicitude about the gentlemen of your staff who have rendered you and their country such faithful service. I have taken that subject into consideration. I understand that they go with you to New York. I shall desire them, at their earliest convenience after their return, to make their wishes known to me. I desire you, however, to be satisfied that, except the unavoidable privation of your counsel and society, which they have so long enjoyed, the provisions which will be made for them will be such as to render their situation as agreeable hereafter as it has been heretofore.

Each member of the Administration then gave his hand to the veterau, and rethed in profound silence.

Cen. McClellan Accepts the Command of the Army.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 .- Major-General McClellan to-night issued the following order:---

Head-Quarters of the Army, Washington, D. C., Nov. 1, 1861. } GENERAL ORDER, No. 19 -In accordance with General Order No. 94 from the War department, I hereby assume command of the armies of the United States.

In the midst of the difficulties which encompass and divide the nation, hesitation and self distrust may well accompany the assumption of so vast a responsibility; but counding, as I do; in the loyalty, discipline and courage of our troops, and believing, as I do, that Providence will favor ours as the just cause, I cannot doubt that success will crown our efforts and sacrifices.

The Army will unite with me in the feeling of regret that the weight of many years, and the effect of increasing infirmities, contracted and intensified in his country's service, shall just now remove from our head the great Soldier of our nation .-The hero, who in his youth raised high the reputation of his country in the fields of Canada, which he sanctified with his blood, who in more mature years proved to the world that American skill and valor could repeat, if not eclipse, the exploits of Cortez, in the land of the Montezumaswhose whole life has been devoted to the service of his country-whose whole offorts have been directed to uphold our honor at the smallest sacrifice of life-a warrior who scorned the selfish glories of the battle-field, when his great qualities as a statesman could be employed more profitably for his country-a citizen who, in his declining years, has given to the world the most shining instances of loyalty, in disregarding all ties of birth, and clinging to the cause of truth and honor Such has been the career of Winfield Scott, whom it has long been the delight of the nation to bonor as a man and a soldier.

While we regret his loss, there is one thing we cannot regret-the bright examnle he has left for our emulation. Let us all hope and pray that his declining years may be passed in peace and happiness, and that they may be cheered by the success of the country and the cause he has fought for and loved so well. J. C. Ayra & Co. Genis: I feel it my duty to asknowledge what your careaparilla has done for meliaving inherard a Sciolious infection, I have suffered from it in various ways for years. Sometimes it burst out in Ukers on 111 lands and arms; sometimes it turned inward and illetressed me at the stometh. Two years ago it backs out on my head and celered my scalp and ears with one some, which was painful and foothsome beyond description. I tried many medienes and several physiciaus, but without much relief from any thing. In fact, the disorder green worse. At length I was rejouced to read in the Gospiel Messenger that you had prepared an ulterative (Sarsaparilla), for I knew from your reputation that any thing you mide must be good. I sent to Cincinnatiand got it, and used it till it caned me. I took it, as you advise, in small descript a temporal series and healthy skin soon began to form under the seab, which after a while fell off. Up skin is now clear, and I know by my feelings that the disease has gone from my system. You can well believe that I feel what I am saying when I tell you, that I hold you to be one of the apostles of the age, and remain ever gratefully.

I have excured with it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Fererral and Mercurial Desarte. One of my patients had Syphitic ulcers in his throat, which were consuming his polisic and the top of his month. Your Sarsparills, steadily taken, cured him in five weeks. Another was attacked by secondary symptoms in his bose, and the ulteration had exten away a considerable part of it, so that I believe the disorder would soon reach his brain and kill him.
